4m44izx2mar9	2022-05-13 15:41:05	No		Visible presence of Dakota culture and history, comfortable and culturally appropriate places for reflection & ritual,	This is a place of power with a history of diplomacy, among other things. With Dakota people taking the lead, and other native people contributing to the process, I believe some of the things/stories/people that have been violently excised from this place can support healing.	Ask them. Build education and guidelines into the landscape (through art, interpretation, interaction) that can help guide white people in reflecting on the history and their own complicity/behavior.	My impulse is to ask Dakota and other indigenous people in the region. And I would like to see colonial/industrial structures removed to improve access without totally erasing that part of the river's history.	Weird and uncomfortable design-y hardscaping. Corporate led and sponsored businesses and projects. Leisure activities geared towards the upper classes.

6lx8kfm7r783	2022-06-19 20:13:48	No		Indigenous people camped along the river shore, river rapids destroyed by dams, islands inundated long ago, riparian forests teeming with wildlife.	Describe the geologic history and the history of indigenous people's relationship to the river and adjacent land. This place should have a unique focus on what this place was like prior to European settlement.	Hire Native people as staff, including the upper level management and supervisors. Use Grand Postage State Park as a model for how this can be done.	Use indigenous design, structures, and events. The Twin Cities are full of Eurocentric museums, history centers, and events. This place should be uniquely focused on indigenous history in relation to natural history (e.g., geology, the river, native plants, birds and other wildlife, all seen through an indigenous lens.	Conventional Eurocentric design, structures, and events.

3rt2y6v9udu7	2022-06-21 11:27:47	No		Contemporary stories--there's more to this place than milling.	There's a built in attraction with the falls; infrastructure around that is only for wealthy and tourists though.	Ask them what they would prefer, and follow through on what they tell you.	Programs that build knowledge toward a more sustainable, inclusive future.	Not just high end destination attractions and condos.

Celebration of one of the great rivers of the world, public recreation potential.	restore spirt island and set it astue as a sacred space like a cathedral or synagogue, open at times to all for quiet contemplation, at other times used for indigenous ceremonies. Restore St Anthony Falls to the natural wonder it once was. Tell the history, and legends of the place. Treat the whole area as a special park maintained by a broadly constituted council.	The restored waterfall should be a tourist attraction with viewing spaces and interpretation. Parkland around the area and along the river should be available for recreation activities. Spirit Island is a sacred space and should be treated as such, a place of quiet, when not in use for indigenous ceremonies.	Industrial activity, anything that diminishes respect for the place.

3wh27by4gwo8	2022-07-11 01:17:14	No		Opportunities to swim, canoe, kayak, paddleboard, surf, fish, and otherwise recreate ON the water.	In terms of reconnecting communities to the River, I believe this location in particular represents an opportunity for that to mean more than just riverside access, but to mean actual engagement in, on, and WITH the river. She is so powerful at this point - dropping nearly 100 ft. In nature, this would be a place of power. A place where the force of the river is truly appreciated. Urban communities tend to be disconnected from the water. Native American communities as well. This is an opportunity to think about how the story of the river means more than just riverside views, but a place to learn to respect what SHE can teach us.	Access to be ON the water. Potentially to include classes & programming about water safety and water hydrology. Could easily pair with programs on ecology and native foods. (For example, canoe classes to learn how to pilot a canoe, for rice paddy harvesting)	Educational opportunities centering on Native culture & the environment. Cultural & arts: a river walk w/ books or installations featuring Native authors & other signage to learn about Native history w/ this location. If structures are built over the water, have on-water access/experiences with these structures (such as art installations best accessed on water). Native-owned restaurants and/or breweries. Opportunity to showcase MSP's commitment to the environment & active, healthy outdoor living. Provide natural experiences (including habitat conducive to wildlife and redevelopment of riparian zone, in-stream structures, access points & trails designed to mesh w river and riparian zones); providing an accessible experience (ADA-accessible river access & walkways); providing outdoor living & recreating opportunities (eddies for fishing; various whitewater features for river surfing, kayaking & canoeing; natural	Excessive amounts of open grass areas (Selected areas with a purpose-amphitheater, ceremony, outdoor classrooms-are fine. However, I believe restoring the land with natural & medicinal plants will create a place to reconnect with nature as well as a 'get away' from sound, sight, and smell of city). Excessive concrete, and redevelopment of riparian zone, especially for parking (plenty of parking would be great, but look for space efficient ways to design (45deg angles, one way traffic) while also being eco-friendly (rain garden, etc.)) Only asphalt walking paths (some dirt paths especially in more natural areas would be great). Fences or other barriers (psychological or physical) to river access & views.

Stuff that cannot last from our winters/weater
8ia4wbs9rc33	2022-07-29 15:46:39	Yes	Prairie Island Indian Community	Information to tell visitors of the significance of this place for the Dakota nation, as information boards.	It is very encouraging to give the Native communities an outlet to voice their concerns. The most important opportunity is education.	To make an area for us to come visit and pay our respects.	A park would be very nice. To make Spirit Island cut off from people would keep its integrity.	I fear putting up tables or bbq's would encourage drinking or partying.
42ujy4hnl6j3	2022-07-29 15:55:01	Yes	Prairie Island Indian Community	Minnesotans, Dakota People, Ojibwa people. To bring reverence in mind and actions.	Strengthening families, self.	Ask tribes to sponsor name plaque. Also put down all or any conduct at and during times of prayer.	Fire pit to offer tobacco	No profanity activities. Remind to keep thoughts and emotions respectful.
3mg36zen2x73	2022-07-29 16:01:11	No				Don't let European culture norms seep into explanation of the importance of this place to Indigenous people. Let the Native interpreters decide which stories are to be told. Don't require every story be told for the casual tourist. Leave some secret places for those in the oral tradition to enjoy in peace.	Use extant physical manifestation to tell the various stories. Let the visitor discover the stories. Not too many plaques telling the visitor what to think.	Minimal intrusion. Use what's there.
